BOROUGH WILL REPAIR ROADS IN CEMETERY

Borough council, at its regular August meeting Monday night at the engine house, agreed, at the request of representatives of Evergreen cemetery, to repair and resurface roads in the cemetery with Highway Department labor, at cost, at the convenience of the borough. The work will be done between now and fall, Borough Engineer LeRoy H. Winebrenner said, when the Highway department has time from its regular borough work.

Carnival Raid Ignored

Council "shied" away from any action or discussion of the raid on a carnival last month by state police upon orders of the District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter.

The raid was conducted in full view of Chief of Police Harpster and a borough policeman who had been assigned to the grounds by Burgess C. A. Heiges. Eleven were arrested and fined a total of $1,700 for use of the county and approximately $200 costs. Gambling property was seized and ordered destroyed by Judge W. C. Sheely. $255.89 was seized and was also turned over to the county treasurer.

Consider Limited Parking

Council referred to its safety committee for study and recommendations requests that parking be limited to one side only on Liberty street and North Stratton street. Members of the Battlefield Guides association said that cars parked on both sides of Liberty street make it difficult for tourists to get through the street.

Will Stop Traffic

A motion was adopted directly that the green arrow be turned off, and all westbound traffic forced to stop for the red light during school hours.

Winebrenner Reported That White Lines and Signs Had Been Placed on the Curve of East Lincoln Avenue and Harrisburg Street, and That Similar Lines and Signs Would Be Placed on the Curve on Baltimore Street.

A request from Harold Waybright for a street sign at the borough limits on Steinhewer avenue was referred to committee.

O. H. Benson, chairman of the building committee of the Adams County Free library, appeared before council to report on the four years of the library's activities and drive to raise money to convert part of the old jail into new library quarters.

Wants New Sidewalk

John B. Kendlehart, Highland avenue, appeared before council to inquire what progress had been made in having a fire hydrant placed on this street. He was informed that it was in the hands of the fire department.

REPORTS DAUGHTER MISSING

Mrs. Thomas Small, 236 South Washington street, reported to borough police that her daughter, Mary Louise, left home at 9 o'clock Monday night and had not returned. Only description furnished was that the girl was wearing a dark green dress. Police said she was about 14 years old. They were asked to be on the lookout for her.

MORE DONATE TO LIBRARY'S BUILDING FUND

Contributions continued to flow into the Adams County Free Library building fund today as the formal Gettysburg drive concluded. Plans will be completed Friday evening at a meeting of the board concerning the date for the forthcoming drive throughout the county for the $15,000 needed to pay off the purchase of the county jail and to renovate that structure.

Gettysburg's Drive, Which Was Held During July, Brought in a Number of Contributions and Promises of Gifts from Various Local Organizations and Individuals.

Hanover Governor Heiges

It has also brought in about $300 in contributions from persons living outside the county who heard of the drive and sent along their personal checks to help the fund.

One of them, F. E. Cremer, Hanover florist, sent $25 and a letter: "Noting that you are having quite an effort to convert the old jail building into a public library and always being willing to help as far as I can anything that is for the betterment of the community, I am enclosing a check payable to the Adams County Library. I know the difficulty we have had in maintaining an up-to-date library in Hanover, as I have for some years been on the board of governors."

Many Others Donate

Another to send a letter with his contribution was Nat Lewis Kaderly, 243 North Washington street, who wrote "As an instructor in English in Gettysburg college, I have been residing in this community during the past 10 months. I have watched with interest the progress of the Adams County Free Library and because I approve very heartily of the type of work this institution can do, I would like to have a small part in furthering its progress."

Among additional donors listed by the library are Dr. Earl Bowen, L. S. Long, Harold H. Reuning, Glenn L. Bream, Mrs. William A. Hennig, Gettysburg Building Supply, Glenn S. Weiland, Mrs. W. E. Roth, J. M. Myers, Mrs. John D. Keith, Miss Helen Keith, Rev. Wallace E. Fisher, Times and News Publishing company, Morris Gittlin, J. Floyd Slabaugh, George M. Zerfling, R. S. ASPERS BAZAAR IS A SUCCESS

Despite the usual lack of cooperation on the part of the weatherman the recent 14th anniversary and bazaar of the Aspers fire company, has been acclaimed a success. Although rain forced the bazaar to be held over on a second week-end, total proceeds amounted to $3,000, including donations. Approximately half of this will be profit.

The money will be added to the treasury to help finance improvements to the fire-fighting equipment and fire company grounds.

President Robert Eisenhart today expressed his appreciation to all those who patronized the bazaar as well as those responsible for the event.

Prize winners in the grand drawing held during the last night of the bazaar are:

HEALTH BOARD APPOINTED BY TOWN COUNCIL

Gettysburg has a board of health again. A slate of five names was recommended to the borough council Monday night by Councilman Samuel Weiser, chairman of the council's health committee, and unanimously approved. Its members, none of whom were on the old health board, are:

For a five-year term: Elvin Dorn, East Lincoln avenue.

For a four-year term: Dr. Harrison F. Harbach, 654 Highland avenue.

For a three-year term: Attorney Eugene R. Hartman, 19 Hanover street.

For a two-year term: Mrs. Elizabeth Pennington, 412 Carlisle street.

For a one-year term: W. Preston Hull, 223 Chambersburg street.

Borough authorities discovered recently that the terms of all five members of the old board of health had expired. The question of appointing a new health officer, discussed at the July meeting of the council, brought the matter to light.

No Action On Officer

It was intimated at the last meeting of the council that Eric R. Deardorff, present health officer and secretary of the health board, would resign his position, and the appointment of Eugene S. Sickles, fire marshal, as health officer, was discussed. No action was taken by council, however, although Sickles was later sworn in as a special officer and "assistant health officer" by Burgess C. A. Heiges.

At Monday night's meeting it was intimated that Deardorff will not resign. His appointment, councilmen said, does not expire until the end of the present year. The health officer is appointed by the board of health and the appointment confirmed by the borough council.

POLICE CHIEF GOES FISHING

Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster "has gone fishing." Burgess C. A. Heiges said today, but will be back in Gettysburg tonight, and return to duty Wednesday.

The burgess said the chief was off Monday and today, but that this "cleaned up" his vacation. Heiges said part of the vacation time was "left over from last year."

Among borough bills which were approved for payment at Monday's council meeting was one for approximately $160 for the services of Special Police Officer Paul B. Shealer, who was "acting chief" during the time Harpster was off duty during the carnival raid and for several days afterward. Shealer was on duty Monday and today.

"Harpster had made arrangements to go fishing, and I told him to take Monday and Tuesday off," Heiges said today.

JULY CRASHES INCREASE AND DAMAGES RISE

The number of accidents investigated by state police of the Gettysburg substation rose during July, both in number and in the number of persons injured. Property damage zoomed from $7,740 in June to $19,265 in July. The July accidents totaled 21. Twenty-five persons were injured in addition to the one fatality. There were 13 accidents in June and 19 in July, 1948. Seventeen arrests were made as a result of accident investigations. Sunday and Tuesday lead other days of the week in accident frequency. There were three during July on each of these days.

BULLETINS

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—Senators today postponed hearings from tomorrow until Monday on the administration's $1,450,000,000 foreign arms program amid indications that they will attempt to reduce it in size and scope.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) said the joint Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees will seek "the widest possible area of agreement" among members of the foreign arms plan before asking Senate action.

He spoke out as W. Averell Harriman, the Marshall Plan's roving ambassador in Europe, urged the House Foreign Affairs committee to approve the arms program. He said it is needed promptly to "protect the growing generation from war."

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—An annual increase of $112,000,000 in veterans' pensions and disability payments was voted today by the House. The bill was passed, 354 to 0, without opposition or debate and was sent to the Senate.

May Be New GOP Chairman

Guy George Gabrielson, of Bernardsville, N. J., appears to be the compromise choice as new Republican national chairman to succeed Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr. With the GOP national committee meeting scheduled for Aug. 4, Gabrielson, 58, lawyer and asbestos mine owner, appears to have the field mostly to himself, with the only organized opposition coming from friends of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York.

ROTARIANS ARE HOSTS TO WIVES

Eighty-five attended the Ladies' night dinner held by the Gettysburg Rotary club Monday evening at the Mt. Joy Lutheran parish house. President William G. Weaver presided at the meeting with 43 Rotarians, 40 Rotaryans and two guests present.

Miss Josephine Couch presented two violin numbers accompanied by Dr. Kenneth Smoke at the piano. She then assisted Mr. and Mrs. Milo Gallinger, Guernsey, in demonstrating use of looms and the art of weaving.

Mrs. Gallinger explained the various yarns used in weaving and how the art of weaving cloth grew from the early weaving of mats and baskets from reeds and the like.

There are 344,000 persons in the United States today who are listed as weavers and have hand looms in their homes, she said. Pointing out that the art of hand weaving has been revived in the past 50 years from an almost forgotten tradition, she noted that 25 years ago only 10,000 handweavers were to be found throughout the U. S. Most handweavers begin the art as a hobby, and many eventually start small businesses to dispose of their products, she said.

AMPS COMBINES WORK, HOBBIES

Claude Amps, a graduate of Gettysburg college, combines his work with his hobbies. With Mrs. Amps, the supervisor of instrumental music in Adams township high school, near Johnstown, he enrolls annually for the six-week summer session at State College. Since 1934, he has camped along the banks of Spring creek.

His current homework includes practice on a bassoon and bowing a string bass. He also attends classes in music appreciation. His hobby is fishing. "I study a few different instruments every summer," he says, "but trumpet is my major one." He holds a bachelor's degree from Gettysburg college and received his master's degree in 1938.

A science major with music as a hobby, Mr. Amps taught scientific subjects until his sideline became his main interest. Week-ends he goes home to direct rehearsals of the 95-piece school band which plays summer concerts and practices as a marching unit for fall athletic events.

Mr. and Mrs. Amps have lived in their tent along the creek every summer except five during war time, when he served as a lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Army.

It will be 65 feet in depth with a one story kitchen unit attached to the south end.

The new building will consist of a basement for social gatherings and an assembly room accommodating 300 persons or 200 at tables. TO HOLD REUNION

The eleventh reunion of the descendants of Peter Mickley's three daughters will be held Sunday, August 7, at the South Mountain Fair grounds, near Arendtsville. The affair will begin at 12:30 p. m.

The sluggish Tiber, which splits the west and north sections of the borough, was indirectly the cause of a rift in the ordinarily placid flow of a borough council meeting Monday night, and before the fustian and feudin' was over, names had been called.

It wasn't the Tiber in its entirety, but a couple of sand bars in the stream south of Springs avenue that started the fireworks. Councilman Fred Hummelbaugh asserted, vehemently, that they should be removed. Borough Engineer Leroy H. Winebrenner admitted that they hadn't been, when the rest of the Tiber was cleaned.

Winebrenner, making his monthly report to council, reported that the cleaning of the Tiber had been completed by borough employees at a labor cost of 400 hours, and that Winebrenner's Run had also been cleaned. "This time we took the stones away, so that they couldn't be thrown back," he said.

Blames Winebrenner

"The cleaning out of this part of the Tiber (the sand bars) was authorized by the borough council, but was never done," Hummelbaugh said. Pointing his finger at the borough engineer, he said: "You don't think it is necessary, so it wasn't done. It is necessary, and this time it is going to be done."

The councilman said that "last year and the year before" the cleaning was authorized and "Mr. Winebrenner said it wasn't necessary."

Winebrenner replied: "All I want is an order, and I'll do the work."

And Hummelbaugh retorted: "You have an order, you don't need any more. I've been balked the last two years, and I don't intend to be balked again this year."

At this point in the battle Council President H. M. Oyer took a hand with the statement: "I believe that anything that Winebrenner told you was to save the borough money."

Shealer Is Involved

Then the going got rougher. "Either Winebrenner or Dan Shealer is a ----," (a four-letter word meaning prevaricator), Hummelbaugh charged.

"When I asked Winebrenner why it (the Tiber) wasn't cleaned out, Winebrenner said that Dan said it wasn't necessary, and I take my orders from Dan," the councilman added. "When I asked Dan about it, he said he hadn't said it."

"It seems to be a question as to whether it needs cleaning or doesn't," Oyer injected. "If it needs it, we should clean it out; if it doesn't we shouldn't."

"It was brought up in council and Winebrenner was to clean the Tiber as he saw fit," Councilman Shealer declared. "I'm not a ---- and neither is he."

POLIO POLICIES ARE ASSAILED

Cleveland, Aug. 2 (P)—A local official of the National Foundation for infantile paralysis claims some insurance companies are "hitting below the belt" in selling polio insurance.

DeForest Mellon, treasurer of the foundation's Cuyahoga county chapter, spoke at a meeting of the board of directors of the Cleveland association of health and accident underwriters.

"For years," Mellon said, "We have been telling the people that we are paying the bills of all polio victims regardless of financial condition and that they do not need to buy polio insurance. The public is not taking charity, as the 'pride angle' of some of the polio insurance ads would have you think."

Later he told a reporter: "We have no objection to the selling of insurance. But when the insurance companies use scare advertising and infer that people who accept help from the National Foundation are charity cases, we believe that is hitting below the belt."

Some polio policies offer to pay up to $5,000 for a $5 annual premium.

In New York, a spokesman for the National Foundation said there would be no comment from the National office on polio insurance. He said the foundation provides financial aid to "anybody who comes to a chapter for help," adding that "we consider the people we help not indigent, but perhaps medically indigent. This includes the bulk of the families of polio victims. But if a man has a $75,000 income, we wouldn't pay the bills."

KISSING WIFE COSTS MAN $10

Galesville, Md., Aug. 2 (P)—Because he was so vehement about his right to be kissed in public by his wife, Roy Miffleton, 31, of Washington is $10 poorer today.

Miffleton was fined that amount yesterday by Trial Magistrate Norman Hazard after testimony at a hearing developed that quite a rumpus ensued following a wifely kiss on an outing Sunday at Mayo Beach on Chesapeake Bay.

Mrs. Mary Traving, wife of the resort owner, objected to such goings-on in public.

Miffleton objected to her objecting. Words flew hot and heavy. A crowd gathered. And then the police came.

At the trial, Judge Hazard said he wasn't fining Miffleton for publicly kissing his wife but for disorderly conduct afterward. The judge also levied a like fine against a friend of Miffleton's, John Cain, a 26-year-old Washington policeman. Cain had been loud in supporting Miffleton's side of the controversy, testimony showed.

Weird Convention Held In Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2 (P)—Would you like to see a convention where the delegates don't drop bags of water on pedestrians' heads; or throw empty bottles out hotel windows? Or run around wearing funny hats and blowing silly tin whistles?

Then drop in on a convention being held in Pittsburgh today. You'll find 60 very serious men there. They're from 44 cities in the U. S. and Canada, and they're holding their annual meeting.

They haven't a single item of entertainment on their four-day program!

Who are these weird people who don't know what a convention is all about? They are members of the International Association of Convention Bureaus.

Unemployment Rise Hits Pa. Reserves

Harrisburg, Aug. 2 (P)—An upsurge in unemployment in Pennsylvania is forcing the commonwealth to dig into its wartime compensation reserves.

The Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation reported that it paid out $51,122,000 in the first half of 1949 to jobless Pennsylvanians while receiving only $38,180,000 in employer contributions and interest.

The difference came from huge reserves piled up during periods of full employment during World War II and the postwar years.

The bureau said the state unemployment compensation fund balance was $622,600,000 and only a continued sharp decline in unemployment would change employers' contributions. The law provides for an automatic increase in rates when the balance drops below a certain percentage of total payrolls. Employers now contribute from one-half to 2.7 per cent of the employees' salaries.

DOLLAR WINS BOAT TROPHY

Detroit, Aug. 2 (AP)—Stanley Dollar and his solid speedboat Skip-a-Long now have unquestionable title to powerboat racing's biggest honor—the Harmsworth trophy.

The San Francisco millionaire and the 30-foot red speedster earned sole rights to the big plaque by besting Detroit's Jack Schaffer's Such Crust I in the Harmsworth's run off race on the Detroit river yesterday.

Then they went on to capture the grueling 100-mile Detroit marathon race by again trimming a stricken Such Crust I—this time by a lap and a half.

That victory, at an average of 65.115 miles per hour, gave Dollar the J. Lee Barrett trophy, and the first prize of a new model sedan. For the fastest lap, he also earned the Fred Alger trophy for the fastest lap—37.632 miles per hour.

The Harmsworth trophy, which now goes west for the first time in its 46 years of existence, has been in Detroit since 1920, when Veteran Racer Gar Wood first claimed it. His last defense—and the last before Saturday's race—was in 1933.

Harrisburg, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Public Utility Commission received a protest late yesterday from Lloyd H. Messner, of Potstown, against discontinuance of service by the Philadelphia Electric company. He said he was improperly charged with tampering with his electric meter.

Sports Roundup

By JOSEPH B. KELLEY
(Batting for Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)
Boston, Aug. 2 (AP)—At least a half dozen of some 160 college athletic powers which subscribe to the NCAA "sanity code" are in for a rude shock Aug. 12.

On that day from Chicago they will be cited for violations of the code governing athletic policies. The rebukes developed after last week's meeting of college athletic commissioners at New Castle, N. H.

Generally, the NCAA Compliance committee is enthusiastic about conditions in intercollegiate sports.

MORE COLLEGIATE ATHLETIC HEADACHE

Summer baseball for many years has been a sore subject with colleges, the athletes and promoters of summer leagues. Two years ago players in the jurisdiction of the Eastern College AA were banned from the Northern league, and independent circuit in Vermont and New Hampshire.

Now the college fathers are casting suspicious glances at the Borscht Basketball circuit in the Catskills where many collegians have jobs as waiters and play considerable basketball.

BATTING AROUND

Tennis intimates hereabouts think one berth on the United States Davis Cup team will be determined by the showings of Frankie Parker and Pancho Gonzales in the coming play at Newport, R. I., Casino, the better man winning.

Red Sox players and coaches think Cleveland outfielder Bob Kennedy has as good a throwing arm as any outfielder they've ever seen and that goes for those who saw Bob Meusel.

Satchel Paige insists a fast ball is the best pitch. "Curve's only a fooler," says Satch.

"Yuh gotta be smart, though. Yuh gotta watch the good hitters. They step outta the box and get in again with their feet different. And yuh gotta throw that fast ball where yuh want it or they'll hurt. But it's a better pitch than the curve."

HAMBLETONIAN IS WIDE OPEN

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—Although Bangaway will be the favorite, there is no outstanding contender for the $67,000 Hambletonian stake such as Demon Hanover a year ago.

A wide-open field shapes up for the 24th edition of the famed trotting classic for three-year-olds at Good Time track Aug. 10.

Last August, Demon Hanover, owned and driven by Harrison Hoyt of Bethel, Conn., justified the favoritism that had been his all year by running away with the riches in two straight heats.

But the railbirds following the grand circuit this year are prepared for anything when the starter gets the field away in the first heat next week.

Bangaway, from the Saunders Mills stable, Toledo, Ohio, rules the slight choice because of three major triumphs last month—the Historic-Dickerson cup at Goshen and the Adirondack and Saratoga stakes at Saratoga Springs.

Three other colts and four fillies are rated capable of taking down first money in the event, which is staged on a best-two-of-three heats basis. The colts are Guy Ambassador, owned by another Toledo man, O. L. Mears; Scotch Pal, from Hayes Fair Acres, Du Quoin, Ill.; and Volume, representing Coldstream Stud, Lexington, Ky.

SENATORS MAY DECIDE WINNER IN JUNIOR LOOP

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

Washington's cellar-diving Nats, currently the sorriest looking club in the majors, may decide the American league pennant race.

Through a strange quirk in the schedule, Washington and the third-place Boston Red Sox have played only seven games against each other. That means they will meet 15 more times this season, eight at Boston's Fenway Park.

On the other hand, the weary Washingtons, now three and a half games out of the basement after winning only 12 of their last 50 games, have met the league-leading New York Yankees 12 times and the second-place Cleveland Indians 15 times.

Red Sox Advance

The way the Senators have been floundering, it would come as no startling news should the Red Sox win 12 of the remaining 15 games. One of them is practically in the bag for Boston. That's the game of July 7, called after six innings with the Red Sox in front, 8-3, to enable Boston to make train connections.

The contest later was ordered resumed at the sixth inning by League President Will Harridge. It did not go into the records as a Boston victory.

Boston holds only a 4-3 edge over Washington, but all three of the Senators' triumphs came early in the season when they were the surprise of the league. Since then, evil days have fallen upon the boys from the Capital City.

The Red Sox advanced to within two and a half games of second and seven games of the leading Yankees yesterday, turning back the Indians, 4-3, before a surprising Monday afternoon turnout of 35,243 paid fans. The victory gave the Red Sox a 3-2 edge in the series.

Cards' Lead Shaved

Southpaw Mel Parnell gained his 15th pitching triumph, besting Cleveland's Bob Lemon with a nine-hitter. Lemon allowed 10 safeties. Ted Williams batted in the winning run in the seventh inning.

The Brooklyn Dodgers shaved St. Louis' first-place lead in the National league to a slender half game last night, shutting out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-0, while the Cardinals were losing 8-1, to the Boston Braves.

Ralph Branca, back in form, limited the Pirates to four hits—three by Ralph Kiner—to register his 12th victory. He was backed by a six-run first inning that kayoed Starter Ernie Bonham and muzzed up reliever Murry Dickson.

Browns Beat Senators

Warren Spahn, helped by Sauer's and Bob Elliott's home runs, coasted to his 13th triumph. He limited the Cards to eight hits. A fourth-inning homer by Enos Slaughter prevented the southpaw from pitching a shutout.

The St. Louis Browns shut out the Senators, 2-0. Karl Drews, pitching one of his rare good games, allowed eight hits for his fourth triumph.

The New York Giants took undisputed possession of fourth place in the National league, walloping the Chicago Cubs, 11-3. Bobby Thomson led the attack on three Chicago pitchers with a triple, two doubles and a single. Clint Hartung went the route for his ninth victory. Bob Chipman was the loser.

Snead Wins Western Open With Record

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 2 (AP)—Sam Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., professional who says he's "tired of golf" had something today to relieve that tired feeling.

It was the $2,600 won on Sunday by taking first place in the 46th annual western open with a 72-hole total of 268. That score bettered the western open record of 270, set in 1947 by Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., and equalled the record for the 6,557-yard Keller course, set in 1946 by Henry Ransom.

To get his 268, Snead had to shoot one of three rounds of 65 scored in the four days of play in the western classic. He fired that one Saturday to add to his earlier rounds of 69 and 67.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis shot a 65 yesterday to boost himself to a four-round total of 272 and take down $1,900 second money.

The second place Rocks put across four runs in the eighth inning to get those three postponed tilts out of the way. In the event of rain tonight Bonneville will be at Bendersville and Huntertown at Cashtown Thursday night and New Oxford will play at Barlow Friday.

All games are scheduled to start at 6 p. m. Provided tonight's games are played, Cashtown will play off a game postponed from July 24 at Bonneville on Thursday evening. The following Thursday, August 11, Bendersville will play at Huntertown.

Three members of each team will be sent to the all-star aggregations. The teams making up the North All-Stars include Wensville, Heidersburg, Bendersville, Cashtown, Granite, Huntertown. The South All-Stars will be made up of members from New Oxford, Bonneville, Brushtown, Green Springs, Barlow and Greenmont.

MANY CONTESTS ARE SCHEDULED IN SOUTH PENN

The South Penn baseball league this evening will attempt to play off three of the games washed out by the rains July 10, and, if tonight's contests are played and the weather holds good for two weeks, the loop will clear itself of all postponed games, according to present plans.

Home Towns Give Fox, Wertz Presents

Philadelphia, Aug. 2 (AP)—The folks back home showered Nelson Fox, the Philadelphia Athletics utility infielder, and Vic Wertz, Detroit outfielder, with gifts during the intermission of the doubleheader between the two American league clubs on Spnday.

Fox received a television set, a clock made of anthracite and 500 cigars from friends in the Chambersburg, Pa., area during the between-the-games ceremonies yesterday. The presentation was made by Chauncey DePut, commander of the St. Thomas, Pa., American Legion post.

Hanover, Pa., fans gave Wertz a traveling bag.

Chicago, Aug. 2 (AP)—Infielder Frankie Gustine, 29, has been optioned by the Chicago Cubs to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast league. Gustine, who coaches the Waynesburg (Pa.) college basketball team in the winter, came to the Cubs this spring from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Harrisburg, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Pennsylvania anthracite committee yesterday set 483,050 tons as the industry's quota for the week. The figure represents about a two-day work week for the hard coal industry. The quota last week was for 724,575 tons or about three-days work.

STEELER COACH HAS TROUBLES

Pittsburgh, Aug. 2 (AP)—Johnny Michelosen, youthful coach of the National Football league's Pittsburgh Steelers, is easily the top nominee for pro football's "man on the spot."

Michelosen is winging eastward today after a fruitless trip to the midwest—a trip in which he learned he will have to get along without Halfback Ray Evans, former star at Kansas university.

That roadblock is big enough in itself but without it Michelosen already had his troubles. With training camp opening next Sunday no fewer than 14 veteran Steelers have failed to come to terms.

The men can't be classified as holdouts but there's more than a fair chance some of the 14 won't be on hand for the first practice session. Club officials don't have much to say about the situation—except that some salary slashes were necessary after a $40,000 deficit last year.

Michelosen had counted heavily on Evans to spark his single-wing attack. But Evans, who picked up $20,000 in his freshman year, wasn't at all responsive to Steeler offers and said he'd stick to a banking career.

His decision apparently wipes out the trio of tailbacks on the Steeler roster last year. Waivers have been asked on Gonzales Morales and the

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A DAY AT "WESKAWENAAK"

This is a July day. I awake at six-thirty, A.D.T. A thick fog envelops the lake outside my small sleeping chamber. By eight o'clock my good man Malcolm has the log fire warmly ablaze. In half an hour I take my fifty paces to the eating Cabin from the Lodge. Temperature on the verandah 55 degrees. Fog all gone and a cloudless sky.

At nine-thirty I motor across the lake in my little white "Betsy" to the village at Grand Lake, for my mail. Back in ten minutes. Then half an hour or so with my New York Times and Halifax Herald. That over, I dress in my shorts, and less of anything else, and go to my sun porch for the remainder of the morning with my little volume of Marcus Aurelius—one of the most comforting and inspiring books in all literature.

Luncheon at one P. M. Temperature on the island now 65 degrees in the shade and 70—or better—in the sun. Then to the Lodge for letter writing and the writing of these Talks, though this may be reversed as one of the morning joys. If there are no guests, I take an hour or so in roving the island for some new variety of bird. I discover a new one today—I think it is a Towhee with the white belly, orange wings and white-tipped fan tail. I will have to examine it closer with my field glasses again.

I watch for every interesting view for one of my cameras to catch and preserve. No trouble with my plumbing. No leaks. Lights work fine. No grass to mow. All the harvest on the island is given over to pines, hemlocks, birches and maples, with their smaller neighboring shrubs. And mossy paths to comfort the soul!

God looks after the air conditioning on the island of "Weskawenaa"! The water for swimming is fine—warmly invigorating. The U.S.N. bell gongs for dinner at seven P.M. Then with a habitual sunset, and quiet upon the veranda, we retire to the Lodge for an evening with books, radio and friends—usually before an inspiring log fire. And at this date, before retiring, one last look at a ripening Moon scattering its path of gold across the lake.

No, I don't fish. They won't bite for me. They are too deep in the lake now, anyway.

For the record: "Weskawenaa" is one of a small group of islands in Grand Lake, Nova Scotia. And it's not all vacation here. There is plenty of hard manual labor that has to be done.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Fixity of Purpose"

Of whimperers all this bothers me: What they expect this life should be, Or who it was the promise made— On them no burden should be laid?

When first we start to walk we find Our every path with hazards lined, And early in our childhood years— Duty to order us appears.

No way of life and no belief Exempt their followers from grief. God gives to none a guarantee That happiness will always be.

This is the best a man can do: Bravely to live a lifetime through, And bear with faith and courage all The joys and sorrows as they fall.

SLOOP'S ESCAPE WILL HAVE WIDE WORLD RESULTS

By JAMES D. WHITE

(AP Foreign News Analyst)

The escape of the British sloop Amethyst from the Yangtze river is more than a remarkable naval exploit and feat of river navigation.

It could, but may not, end a period of the Chinese civil war in which the Communists have borne down on foreign influences to show who is master of the new China. In this light, the escape is likely to evoke important policy signals from the Reds. Their future course as a world power may become clearer.

Meantime, the escape has removed the Amethyst herself from a situation which had become hopelessly fouled up in diplomatic frustration and political considerations involving "face."

Out On A Limb

The British government and navy were out on a limb with the Amethyst because of the way she got into trouble in the first place.

Many Britons still are dissatisfied with the explanations that have been given for what happened. They still don't see why she had to try to take supplies to the embassy in Nanking—right through the middle of one of the largest military operations in Chinese history. From the King down, British officials have indicated their joy that the Amethyst's ordeal is over. The Labor government, and the navy, may be pardoned if they heave a sigh of relief.

However, the British were not alone in being out on a limb. The Chinese Reds, always glad to pose as the liberators of China from "foreign imperialism," made the usual propaganda hay out of the Amethyst. It would have been better if she had been an American ship, as Uncle Sam's "imperialism" is their big hate now, not England's.

Completely Hopeless

But they had the Amethyst where she was powerless, so they shot the works and charged she had "joined the battle" on the Nationalist side and opened fire herself. The British denied this—plausibly so as their chief and obvious interest these days is to trade with Chinese, not fight them.

The Reds couldn't climb down from this charge because they had made so much of it, and also had demanded indemnity for more than 250 Red soldiers they said had died under the Amethyst's guns.

To make the case completely hopeless, the Reds have no central government as such, and their local regimes are not recognized by any foreign power. The Amethyst was pinned down by Red guns, and could not hope to get permission to leave until next fall, if then.

Kammed Through Boom

So after moonset Friday night her skipper nosed her into the wake of a passing Chinese freighter and started downriver. Without a pilot, and in spite of a blasted chartroom, he somehow twisted through the sharp bends of the shifty channel, past the uncharted sandbars, and even rammed through the boom across the channel at Kiangyin.

The courage and skill this took can not be doubted.

The Amethyst was fired on when she started, and again at Kiangyin. But there is nothing to show that for the next 120 miles the Reds raised a single gun against her.

Proved Their Point

It was dark and they may not have known. But most Chinese will realize that the sloop passed China's most formidable coastal defense station, at Woosung, without a shot being fired—and this several hours after she passed Kiangyin. Could Red communications be that bad?

In explaining all this the Reds may lose face with the Chinese, but not as much as some people think. As the new masters of Nationalistic China they will find it less of a loss of face than if the Amethyst had been rescued by an expedition or by diplomatic pressure.

In their minds they proved their real point months ago—which is that the Yangtze belongs to China, meaning Red China.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)

The seventh-place Utica Blue Sox put on a Billy Mills night at their ball park last night in honor of the baseball comedian, but there was no fun for the Albany Senators. After Mills had put the crowd in a jovial spirit, the Blue Sox tore into the Eastern League leaders and came up with a 15-2 victory.

The non-comic performance ended a nine-game Utica losing streak and helped shave a game off the Senators' margin over second-place Wilkes-Barre.

The Indians won their third straight from Williamsport, 8-4. Sixteen games still separate Wilkes-Barre from the Senators. The Hartford Chiefs moved to within four games of the fourth-place Binghamton Triplets by sweeping a doubleheader with the Trips, 10-3, and 6-4.

The last-place Elmira Pioneers edged the Scranton Miners, 2-1. Joe Lutz' home run over Elmira's center-field fence in the ninth inning broke up a pitchers' duel between the Pioneers' Rube Stohs and two Scranton hurlers, Dick Nidds and Stan McWilliams.

Polio Patient Writes Notes To Aid Doctors Before Death

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP) — Notes

written by a young Navy pilot stricken with polio—in the hopes that he might help "find a cure for this thing"—have been released by his widow now that he is dead.

The pilot was James Olin Chiles, 25, Junior Grade lieutenant stationed at Anacostia Naval Air base. He was taken to Bethesda (Md.) Naval hospital a week ago with symptoms of polio.

Mrs. Chiles, 26, visited him last Wednesday when he was still able to talk. He told her: "Dorothy, this is the best thing that could happen. Maybe I can work with the doctors and find a cure for this thing."

Danger of Choking

A few hours later he wrote his first case note, in pencil in his personal notebook:

"To doctor
"First noticed vision incoherent or something at 1640 (4:40 p. m.) can't even see clearly what I'm writing."

"If anybody puts me in a respirator please note: I cannot swallow. I have a rapid accumulation of mucous in my throat. If I am not allowed to turn my head to the side to spit I'll choke to death."

"Going to Be All Right"

His next brief note was an hour later:

"Doctor
"1753 (5:35 p. m.) noted very poor control of tongue in mouth."

Mrs. Chiles asked him how things were going, but he could only answer in a scrawl:

"My guess is that I'm going to be all right."

She asked if he were in pain. He replied by pencil:

"Some but not bad."

"Every person on this floor has a (word unreadable) contagious disease—don't want you around."

"Can't read—vision's shot temporarily."

"Only thing I'm worried about is you."

"Help me get pillow under head."

NEW REPORT BY AEC TELLS OF GREAT SEARCH

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—The United States is like a man searching for a door marked "doom" and another marked "salvation."

This is the picture given by the Atomic Energy commission (AEC) in a 200-page report on its work.

Every six months the AEC has to make such a report to Congress on its progress. The latest came out yesterday.

The first few pages are given over to the atomic bomb. Because this is secret stuff, you couldn't learn much with a microscope.

The story of the AEC's search for bigger and better bombs that would spell doom where they fall is stated almost dryly. It says:

"New and more effective atomic weapons which were tested at Eniwetok in 1948 are in production."

Not much more than that. It was merely saying the AEC has gone far beyond the deadline of the primitive bomb that smashed Hiroshima and is making far more awful ones now.

But much of the report is like stepping into a world of sunlight and magicians.

Here the AEC tells the story of what's being done to use the atom in searching for a richer and better life for mankind.

It's a story of scientists, all kinds of scientists, plugging away in laboratories all over America, searching, searching.

There's a little section which says:

"Studying blood in a bat's wing. . . . At Argonne (a laboratory at Chicago) scientists studied the effects of radiation on circulation of blood in the wing of a small bat. . . . They found that after the bat was exposed to radiation the circulation of the blood slowed down, largely because broken cells and other organic debris clogged the capillary vessels."

They are trying to find out whether animals can build up resistance to radiation. If they find out, it will help humans.

And there's this:

"At Union college, some 1,400 mice have been used to study the effects upon growth of life, and blood, by irradiation with an . . . x-ray."

And at the "University of Denver . . . radioactive material is applied directly to the sex glands of rats to give information on the amounts that affect the reproductive system enough to cause noticeable changes in the physical characteristics of offspring."

U. S. SURPLUSES TOPIC OF PROBE

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—John Maragon's secret testimony under oath in the Senate "five percenters" inquiry deals in part with the disposal of government surplus property. It was learned Monday.

That is shown in the official record of the hush-hush investigation of the one-time Kansas City bootblack who once had a pass to the White House.

The record also discloses that the inquiry has gone searching into Maragon's bank deposits from 1945 on, and has dealt extensively with the sources of his income.

Maragon was questioned behind closed doors on three consecutive days last week by the Senate's Special Investigations subcommittee. The group is checking on the activities of persons who help others get government contracts in exchange for a fee, usually five per cent of the gross proceeds. That practice in itself is not illegal.

The subcommittee wants to find out whether any five percenters have tried to influence government procurement officials, as has been alleged. Public hearings are scheduled to start August 8. Senator Hoey (D-N. C.), the subcommittee chairman, said today the group has unearthed evidence it regards as more important than the information it has obtained from Maragon.

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall told Congress Monday that hesitation in approving President Truman's program of foreign arms aid would be "most unfortunate" and have "wide ramifications."

The former secretary of state, who was Army chief of staff during World War II, testified before the House Foreign Affairs committee that, while failure to approve the program at this time would result in "a minor economy," it also might result in the "possibility of a major output later on."

BORN of the STORM

Chapter 26

Priscilla was startled. "Tell me what happened."

"I don't know," she said lethargically, "what happened. They started yelling at him and I got scared and hid under the staircase."

"Oh!" Priscilla was so annoyed at the child's dullness she wanted to slap her, but there would have been no justice in that. You couldn't slap a child for having been born stupid. She walked down the hall to Kenneth's room and crept in.

He was not quite asleep. "Kenneth," she said gently.

"Yes, honey," he said, his voice full of sleep. Priscilla's heart was touched, although it was only pity she felt when she heard him call her by a term of endearment. She could not, she knew then, ask him about the men and why they had yelled at him. He would not tell her. She would have got no place, and he would become frightened as he had when she tried to question him before.

She leaned over him and took his face in her hands, intending to place a chaste kiss upon his forehead. But suddenly it occurred to her that such a kiss might hurt him more than comfort him, so she placed a little kiss on his lips, drawing back quickly and smiling goodnight. She saw his expression change and, feeling that she had brought him happiness, she went to bed with her mind almost at ease.

Everyone was asleep . . . except Priscilla, who lay staring into the semi-darkness. May moonlight streamed in at the narrow window and touched Priscilla's coverlet with silver fingers, touched and beckoned. Priscilla felt its power. Come out, come out, Priscilla. Find your true love . . . true love . . . in Emerald Valley. Priscilla stirred uneasily. No matter how she turned, the strong, coarse sheet seemed to bind her too tightly, much too tightly. She pulled the sheet off altogether and, tucking it in carefully around Dora, Priscilla got out of bed.

Ten minutes later she opened the front door—which was easy for there had never been a lock for it much less a key—and went down the path to the silent street. Her heart beat fast with a sense of adventure . . . and freedom. She pulled her white jacket closely around her as she walked toward the business district. Now to find a telephone and call Dennis.

It seemed that centuries passed between the time she called Dennis and the time she was in his arms, yet it could scarcely have been more than 20 minutes. She left the telephone booth and walked out of the drug store self-consciously, although there was no one there to see her except a sleepy soda-jerk. As she stood on the corner and waited, she began to feel chilly and a little frightened. Suppose Mrs. Kent should find her gone? Priscilla would never hear the last of it. But then . . . Kenneth was getting better. Wouldn't it be possible for her to leave him soon? Wouldn't she ever get away? Priscilla pulled her coat closer and shivered.

Dennis' low-slung coupe drove up and, as soon as he leaned over to open the door, Priscilla jumped in. She couldn't wait to feel his nearness. It seemed so long, so cruelly long, since she had been with him. He kissed her once upon the mouth and her pulses raced with the motor as the car speeded toward Emerald Valley.

It was not until the town clock struck one that Priscilla waived goodbye to Dennis and ran, like the fairy-tale heroine, back to her place among the cinders. She let herself in through the perennially unlocked door and stood inside the hall for a moment listening. Silence! What a relief! It seemed quite probable that no one had missed her.

Softly she moved up the steps and, walking on tiptoe, paused at Kenneth's door. No sound there, but . . . a feeling of guilt, against all logic, swept over her. Perhaps she should look in on him. He might be awake and—she might be in pain. Priscilla went swiftly on to Dora's room and returned in a moment, without her coat, and pulling her negligee on over her dress. If Kenneth is awake, she thought, he'll never know I've been out tonight. . . . She opened the door quietly and stepped inside.

"Kenneth!" she whispered. There was no answer. She found the light switch on the wall, but the light did not go on. Instead, suddenly a thousand blinding stars smashed together inside her head and then . . . darkness blacker than any night enveloped her. Priscilla lay motionless on the floor.

Slowly, slowly Priscilla returned from the depths of black unconsciousness to the lighter darkness of Kenneth's bedroom. At first she could not understand what had happened, that she had been struck, and then, as that fact began to penetrate her mind, she whispered, "don't hurt me, don't . . ." But there was no reply from Kenneth. There was, indeed, no sound in the room save her own breathing and the pounding of her heart.

Priscilla lay there for a moment with her eyes open and then, as soon as she could gather sufficient strength—and courage—she began slowly, cautiously to get to her feet. Her head throbbed. It felt as big as the house itself. As she put her palms on the floor to raise herself, the fingers of Priscilla's left hand closed over a small oblong object. It was sharp and it was wet. She pushed it away but, on second thought, she grasped it again, and then rose painfully to a standing position. Her hand found the light switch and this time the light went on. She moved in the direction of the bed.

At first she could see nothing in the sudden brightness and then, when she did see, she could not believe. It was something Priscilla, inexperienced in the matter of violent death, had never imagined nor envisaged before . . . the matted thickness of bloody blanket, the unrecognizable face . . . the gaping gash that half-severed head from body. When she had left Kenneth earlier that evening his face had worn a peaceful smile and now this . . . this was what she had come back to. Sobs rose in her throat and she tried to fight them back, tried to think what was best to do.

Priscilla did not know she had been screaming until she turned, knife in hand, and saw them—Mom and Pop and Dora—staring at her.

Chapter 27

Priscilla dropped the knife and ran, still screaming, from the room. Thrusting Pop and Dora aside, she made for the telephone downstairs. She wanted to call the one person in the world on whom she could depend. Her left hand shook as she tried to hold the telephone to her ear and there was another difficulty. The receiver seemed so slippery. To her horror, even though the lower hallway was dark and she could not see her hand, she knew why the receiver was slipping. Her hand was covered with blood.

This realization made her suddenly calm. Her mind began to work logically. Kenneth had been murdered. The murderer had struck her on the head and had got away . . . or was still somewhere in the house. Call the police first. Then call Dennis. "Police," she said to the operator and gave the address of the Kent house. Her voice shook, but her mind was now clear. She would need Dennis for more reasons than one. She would need him as a man and as a lawyer.

Kenneth was dead and his blood was on Priscilla's hand.

By two o'clock emotion had exhausted itself and they sat, Priscilla, Mr. and Mrs. Kent and Dora, in the shabby living-room waiting for Inspector Duffy to come back downstairs. The house had been searched and no one had been found there . . . except the family. Dennis had come as soon as he could and now he sat beside Priscilla on the couch. The two patrolmen had gone out in the prowl car to search the neighborhood for a stranger, or strangers.

She tried not to think of the sight upstairs. Better keep her mind on her own plight. She had had time to wash the blood from her hand, but it was still on everything she had touched, on the telephone and on her negligee which now lay crumpled beside her on the couch. All that could be explained easily, but there was something else that could not be explained. Her fingerprints, as she well knew now, were on the murder weapon. She had never really seen it, but she had held it in her hand.

Priscilla began to recapitulate in her mind the events of the night. It could not have been later than eleven o'clock when she was in the drugstore telephoning Dennis. The boy behind the counter might remember. She had been out of the house at the time of the murder . . . or had she? Dennis would swear that she had been with him until one o'clock, but what if Kenneth's murder had taken place at exactly that time? What difference would a few minutes make, one way or the other. Yes, she decided, looking at it from Inspector Duffy's point of view, she might well have done it.

As she thought about Inspector Duffy, the subject of her thinking came down the stairs and into the living-room. Dennis moved his legs and sat forward tensely, looking at the Inspector's face.

"I want to question all of you," said the detective. "It won't take long." This last remark surprised Priscilla. She had not expected him to make any show of consideration.

Dennis had risen to his feet and now stood in the middle of the room, making Inspector Duffy look smaller than ever. "Mrs. Priscilla Kent is my client," he said, "and I believe she has the right to keep silent until she has my counsel."

Duffy looked at the tall young man speculatively. "Okay," he said at length. "That's okay with me."

And so it was that Dennis took Priscilla out of the house and over to Viola's, where, after the administration of a sedative, she managed to get a few hours' sleep. It was not until the next afternoon that she was arrested on suspicion of murder.

The four of them sat in the living-room and smoked in silence for awhile, deep in their own thoughts. Even Viola, who smoked very little, had been chain-smoking all morning. Priscilla, looking at her friends, sighed. I wanted Kenneth out of the way, she thought bitterly. I'm going to be punished for wanting that. Dennis leaned over and patted her hand. Then he looked at Daniel. "Can you tell me anything about this?" he asked.

Daniel seemed to rouse himself from great depths of thought. "About what?" he asked, frowning.

Littlestown

Descendants of William and Sarah Plunkert met on Sunday at Big Pipe Creek, near Taneytown, for their third annual reunion. About 55 were in attendance. It was the best attended of three reunions. A basket lunch was enjoyed at noon.

A program was presented at 2 p. m. of which Herbert S. Plunkert, of Littlestown, was the master of ceremonies. Included in the program were the following: monologue, Mrs. Hurshel Shank, Littlestown; song, "My Own Grandpa," Bernice Plunkert, Littlestown, R. 1; two tonette solos, "Caisson Song" and "Cruising Down the River," Jay Weaver, Hanover; reading, Fred Plunkert, Westminster, R. D.; skit, "A Shot Gun Wedding," in which the following participated: Mrs. Herbert S. Plunkert, Mrs. Hurshel Shank and Mrs. George Schafer, Littlestown, and Mrs. George Plunkert, Mrs. Cleason Plunkert, Miss Virginia Plunkert, Littlestown, R. 1; radio quiz in which Mrs. Edward W. Plunkert, Littlestown, served as master of ceremonies and the audience participated; and a reading by Edward W. Plunkert, Jr., Westminster, R. D. The Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, gave the address of the afternoon. His theme was "Gratitude."

Mrs. George Plunkert distributed prizes to the following: couple present who were married the longest, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Plunkert, Littlestown, R. 1. They were married 38 years; couple present who were married for the shortest period of time, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Plunkert, Littlestown. They were married two and one-half months; oldest person present, Edward M. Plunkert; youngest child present, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ireland, Westminster, R. D.; and family having the largest number present, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hess, Littlestown, R. 1. Eight members of this family were present. This program was prepared by a committee consisting of Mrs. George Schafer and Mrs. Harvey Miller, Littlestown, and Mrs. Cleason Plunkert, Littlestown, R. 1.

Officers elected are as follows: President, Luther Hess, Littlestown, R. 1; vice president, Roy Craumer, Hanover; secretary, Herbert S. Plunkert, Littlestown; treasurer, Meredith Schwartz, Gettysburg, R. 1; historian, Mrs. George Schafer, Littlestown; social committee: Mrs. Harry Hess, Littlestown, R. 1, Mrs. Earl Curr, Hanover, and Mrs. Milton Harner, Littlestown; and program committee: Mrs. Herbert S. Plunkert, Littlestown, Mrs. Roy Craumer and Mrs. Bertha Helwig, Hanover.

Following the program and election of officers, the rest of the day was spent playing games and renewing old acquaintances. It is planned to have the fourth reunion at the same place, Sunday, June 30, 1950.

Priscilla felt, suddenly, a faint antagonism between him and Dennis. She wondered why.

"I mean," Dennis rephrased, "did your brother tell you anything about these two men—who they were?"

"What two men?"

Dennis betrayed a certain amount of irritation at Daniel's obtuseness. The two men stared at each other, their antagonism coming out into the open. Priscilla looked from one to the other, shocked. She had thought that Daniel was her friend.

"I think you know," Dennis snapped, "what two men. Dora saw . . ."

"Dora's only a child . . ."

"Dora saw them," Dennis continued, "yesterday afternoon. They went to your brother's bedroom and had an argument with him. Now the question is did they return last night? If we want to save Priscilla . . ."

Daniel's face had taken on a fury as Dennis spoke and Priscilla, to her horror, saw an expression so like Kenneth's it made her gasp. It was the first time she had ever seen any meanness in Daniel. He rose slowly from his chair and stood, legs apart, jaw thrust out.

"I don't want to save Priscilla," he said meaningfully, ". . . or you." As he turned and strode from the room, a small whimper, like an animal's, came from Viola's throat. "Daniel . . ." But he was gone. Through the window they saw him get in his car and start off in the direction of his mother's house.

Things happened in a hurry after that. Inspector Duffy arrived, alone. Or, rather she thought at first he was alone. She did not know there was another detective waiting for him in the car.

"You've no right to take her in," Priscilla heard Dennis say. "You've got no evidence . . ."

"Listen," said Duffy, "her mother-in-law signed a statement that'll send her to the chair, unless the jury happens to like blondes."

EXPECT RECORD VIRGINIA VOTE; TEST FOR BYRD

Richmond, Va., Aug. 2 (AP)—A record Democratic primary vote of more than 300,000 was expected in Virginia today in the wake of the most heated gubernatorial campaign waged in a quarter of a century.

Virginia Republicans, holding their first statewide primary with a contest only in the race for lieutenant-governor, were expected to bring a by far smaller number of voters to the polls.

Upon the result of the election appeared to hinge the leadership of Virginia Democrats held for the last 25 years by the state's senior United States Senator, Harry E. Byrd, a former Virginia governor.

Byrd Backs Battle

It was Byrd who threw the weight of his influence behind the candidacy of State Senator John S. Battle in the four-cornered Democratic gubernatorial race. The other gubernatorial candidates are Francis Pickens Miller, former legislator and member of Eisenhower's staff; Horace H. Edwards, a former mayor of Richmond; and Rennie L. Arnold, Petersburg, Va., businessman

Couple's Bodies Are Found On Lonely Road

Lock Haven, Pa., Aug. 2 (AP)—The bodies of a man and a woman, shot to death, were found late Sunday along a lonely mountain road in Ravensburg State park.

Pvt. Alex Rudville, of the state police, said the case apparently was one of murder and suicide.

The dead are Mrs. Eva Sewall Karstetter, 40, Jersey Shore, and Lawrence D. Getgen, 40, also of Jersey Shore.

John D. Lehman, of Jersey Shore, who has a cabin in the park found the bodies in an isolated section. Mrs. Karstetter's body, riddled by six bullets, was sprawled in the front seat of her automobile. Getgen's body, with one pistol wound in the temple, was found on the ground outside the car. There was a 32 calibre pistol near his hand. Both the woman and man met death from the same calibre bullet.

SEARS DIVORCED

Norristown, Pa., Aug. 2 (AP)—Victory Wilson Sears, tackle with the Philadelphia Eagles pro football team, and his wife were granted a divorce yesterday by Judge E. Arnold Forrest in Montgomery county court. No details of the suit were disclosed. Mrs. Sears is formerly of Portland, Ore. Sears, part owner of a tavern at Flourtown, Pa., has been described as one of the outstanding players in the National Football league.

and pen and pencil manufacturer. With Arnold, Miller, and Edwards each endeavoring to amass a campaign to outweigh the Byrd influence, the Democratic gubernatorial race overshadowed contests for nomination for lieutenant-governor and attorney-general and seats in the lower house of the legislature.

Walter Johnson, an attorney from Heathsburg, is the unopposed Republican candidate for governor. Berkeley Williams of Richmond and E. Thomas McGuire of Williamsburg are the Republicans in the race for the lieutenant-governor nomination.

In 1948, when they won the National League pennant, the Boston Braves had the lowest percentage in the league for hitting home runs at home.

"I don't want to save Priscilla," he said meaningfully, ". . . or you." As he turned and strode from the room, a small whimper, like an animal's, came from Viola's throat. "Daniel . . ." But he was gone. Through the window they saw him get in his car and start off in the direction of his mother's house.

Things happened in a hurry after that. Inspector Duffy arrived, alone. Or, rather she thought at first he was alone. She did not know there was another detective waiting for him in the car.

"You've no right to take her in," Priscilla heard Dennis say. "You've got no evidence . . ."

"Listen," said Duffy, "her mother-in-law signed a statement that'll send her to the chair, unless the jury happens to like blondes."

'5 PER CENTERS' PROBE GOES ON

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—The handling of post-war priorities on steel and cement was reported under investigation today by a senate subcommittee looking into the activities of Washington "five per centers."

Committee investigators were said to be working on a lead furnished them indirectly by John Maragon, fast-talking man-about-Washington who claims friendships with many high government officials.

Maragon was said to have given a senator, not a member of the committee, a story of priorities transactions involving certain government officials whose relatives allegedly received favors from the business firms involved.

Committee members said the information, transmitted immediately to the investigating staff, probably will require extensive checking.

They added this might provide a new slant for their inquiry into the activities of persons who charge businessmen a five per cent fee for using claimed influence in helping get government contracts. The practice isn't illegal, but the committee is interested in the question of influence on public officials.

Meanwhile, Senator Mundt (R-SD) told a reporter the committee expects to check thoroughly on bank accounts said to have been maintained by Maragon. The latter has denied he ever acted as a five per center.

and pen and pencil manufacturer. With Arnold, Miller, and Edwards each endeavoring to amass a campaign to outweigh the Byrd influence, the Democratic gubernatorial race overshadowed contests for nomination for lieutenant-governor and attorney-general and seats in the lower house of the legislature.

Walter Johnson, an attorney from Heathsburg, is the unopposed Republican candidate for governor. Berkeley Williams of Richmond and E. Thomas McGuire of Williamsburg are the Republicans in the race for the lieutenant-governor nomination.

In 1948, when they won the National League pennant, the Boston Braves had the lowest percentage in the league for hitting home runs at home.

Following the program and election of officers, the rest of the day was spent playing games and renewing old acquaintances. It is planned to have the fourth reunion at the same place, Sunday, June 30, 1950.

Priscilla felt, suddenly, a faint antagonism between him and Dennis. She wondered why.

"I mean," Dennis rephrased, "did your brother tell you anything about these two men—who they were?"

"What two men?"

Dennis betrayed a certain amount of irritation at Daniel's obtuseness. The two men stared at each other, their antagonism coming out into the open. Priscilla looked from one to the other, shocked. She had thought that Daniel was her friend.

"I think you know," Dennis snapped, "what two men. Dora saw . . ."

"Dora's only a child . . ."

"Dora saw them," Dennis continued, "yesterday afternoon. They went to your brother's bedroom and had an argument with him. Now the question is did they return last night? If we want to save Priscilla . . ."

Daniel's face had taken on a fury as Dennis spoke and Priscilla, to her horror, saw an expression so like Kenneth's it made her gasp. It was the first time she had ever seen any meanness in Daniel. He rose slowly from his chair and stood, legs apart, jaw thrust out.

"I don't want to save Priscilla," he said meaningfully, ". . . or you." As he turned and strode from the room, a small whimper, like an animal's, came from Viola's throat. "Daniel . . ." But he was gone. Through the window they saw him get in his car and start off in the direction of his mother's house.

Things happened in a hurry after that. Inspector Duffy arrived, alone. Or, rather she thought at first he was alone. She did not know there was another detective waiting for him in the car.

"You've no right to take her in," Priscilla heard Dennis say. "You've got no evidence . . ."

"Listen," said Duffy, "her mother-in-law signed a statement that'll send her to the chair, unless the jury happens to like blondes."

Lift Ban Against Flagstad Concert

San Francisco, Aug. 2 (AP)—Kirsten Flagstad may sing in the San Francisco War Memorial Opera House this fall after all.

Trustees of the war memorial voted 6 to 5 last night to lift their ban on the Norwegian soprano. The Opera Association quickly announced the 1949 season, perilled by the prospective loss of its top star, would go on as scheduled.

With one member absent, the trustees voted 6 to 4 two weeks ago to bar the War Memorial building to Miss Flagstad on grounds her appearances might result in disturbances. The majority resolution at the time said she joined her husband, an accused Quisling, in Norway during the war.

M'GRATH, CLARK BOROUGH WILL APPOINTMENTS TO BE OKAYED

By JACK BELL

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—The double appointment moving Attorney General Tom Clark to the Supreme Court and Senator J. Howard McGrath (D-R. I.) into the Justice Department seemed today to have a clear path to Senate approval.

But the backwash may produce conflicting bids by Senator Stennis (D-Miss.) and Senator Kerr (D-Okla.) for a coveted place on the Senate's tax-handling finance committee. Stennis is a states rights supporter; Kerr an administration backer.

McGrath's acceptance yesterday of President Truman's offer of the Attorney Generalship cleared the way for the official action by President Truman to nominate both him and Clark.

Certain To Accept Clark's acceptance of the Supreme Court appointment, to fill the place vacated by the death of Associate Justice Frank Murphy, had been a foregone conclusion.

McGrath's decision to take the cabinet post was announced at the White House after the Rhode Island senator had consulted with his home folk about his Senate successor.

Whoever that successor is, he will have to go to the bottom of the Democratic list in the Senate in committee assignments. Other senators may shift committees to fill the vacancies which will be created by McGrath's resignation after he is confirmed for Attorney General.

Committee Questions McGrath, who will resign his post as Democratic national chairman as soon as he is confirmed, will leave vacancies on the finance, judiciary and district of Columbia committees.

His chairmanship of the latter group, involving the unofficial title as "mayor" of Washington, is expected to go to Senator Neely (D-W. Va.).

Senators said the finance post, however, may involve Stennis, who didn't support President Truman in the last campaign, and Kerr, who did. Kerr sought membership on the finance committee when the Democrats organized the Senate last January. Others with longer service records crowded him out but he is expected to bid for the vacancy.

Fire Marshal Is Probing Blaze

Philadelphia, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Fire Marshal's office today investigated reports that small boys had been smoking cigarettes near the House of the Good Shepherd just before a 100-year-old barn on the institution's 11-acre estate was destroyed by fire.

Lt. Charles Hassett said he questioned children in the neighborhood after the fire yesterday concerning reports of smoking at the fire scene just before the flames were discovered.

Sisters of the institution prepared to supervise an evacuation of the Maryville home, about 200 feet from the blazing building, but none of the elderly women inmates was forced to leave since the flames were confined to the barn. Only the barn's 20-inch thick stone walls remained standing after the blaze was brought under control.

The House of the Good Shepherd houses 85 women and girls, along with 35 nuns.

'49 POLIO TOLL FAR ABOVE LAST YEAR'S FIGURES

(By The Associated Press)

Infantile paralysis cases showed a sharp increase in some states in the last week, boosting the nation's total far ahead of 1948, a near record year.

The number of polio deaths for the first seven months of 1949, an Associated Press survey showed, is about double the total up to Aug. 1, 1948.

The survey showed approximately 8,000 cases and 442 deaths. However, data on fatalities was sketchy and incomplete in some states on the number of cases.

Many communities, fearing epidemics in the heavy polio months of August and September already have taken emergency measures. State health officials and leaders of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are taking all precautions to prevent the outbreak or spread of the disease.

1916 Was Worst Year

The 27,680 polio cases reported in 1948 were the second highest of record but up to Aug. 1, 1948, the total was under 5,000. The worst polio year was 1916 when about 30,000 cases were reported.

Increases in the number of cases over last week's figures were reported in New York, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The 1,123 cases in Texas did not include the number stricken in the last week in July. Official figures for that period were not available.

New York state reported 482 cases, with 353 in the New York city metropolitan area, the largest number of cases in any big city. California reported 794 cases; Oklahoma 498; Arkansas 492; Illinois 376; Michigan 370; Minnesota 362, and Indiana 242.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has advanced $3,551,365 to its 40 chapters up to Aug. 1 this year, twice as much as granted in a similar period in 1948.
